LIVINGSTON DROWNS SELF

Wandered from Newport Sunday. Found in Irasburg Friday.

The many friends of E. M. Livingston were greatly shocked Friday evening when word came that his body had been recovered from Black river near Irasburg. "Ned," as he has been familiarly known in Newport, where he had been employed at the True & Blanchard Co. store for many years, disappeared from Newport Sunday evening, August 31, and no trace of his whereabouts could be found until news came of his death.

It was reported that he was last seen taking supper at the Newport House which was after 7 o'clock, while other reports were that he was seen on the C. P. railroad tracks on that evening. This clue was investigated without results, and as the days went by and no word came from him his friends became anxious and searching parties were sent out. On Friday afternoon a party of three autos left Newport and covered the woods and territory through to Troy along the C. P. tracks, returning at night with no trace of his whereabouts, but word that came about nine o'clock that evening that he had been found near Irasburg, was the first information since his strange disappearance. Where he had been and the condition he was in during those five days and nights will never be known.

In the spring of 1918 he came up missing the same way, and was not found for two or three days, at that time being found near Orleans, but since then his condition has been normal and of late he has been in the best of spirits.

On this occasion, he was seen near Irasburg by some men who were fishing and having read in the papers about the sudden disappearance in Newport of one who answered his description, one of the men approached him and asked him where he was from. He replied that he came from Massachusetts, but when they asked him if he wasn't the man that friends in Newport were searching for, he ran from them into some bushes. They at once secured more help and when they returned found his body in the river. Just how he happened to be in the river no one knows.

In his telling of his experience when his mind became affected in 1918, when he made his first disappearance, he could not remember of meeting and speaking to friends on the evening he became missing, and when the friends approached him he felt he had done something terrible. He was very much humiliated over it and as his mind became normal it was very difficult for him to return and meet his friends, saying that his first thought was to jump into the river.

And on this occasion whether it was from such a feeling that he decided to take his life, or in wandering through the bushes he fell into the water will never be known. It is thought by many that in the darkness that was approaching, with his mind not fully recovered to its normal condition, he failed to see the river and was drowned. His watch showed that it stopped at 7.40.

The body was taken to the town hall in Irasburg and later in the evening B. S. Curtis and J. E. Akin went to Irasburg and brought the remains to the Curtis Undertaking parlors in Newport.

Edward McCallum Livingston was the son of Rev. W. W. Livingston and Martha Evans Tracy and was born in the Mission Fields of the A. B. C. F. M., Sivas, Turkey, Aug. 14, 1869, receiving his name from Edward McCallum, an English officer in the Crimean war, who married his aunt. He came to America when only a child, his mother dying when he was four years of age, after which he made his home with his aunt, Miss Ruth A. Livingston, for several years, part of which time was at North Troy, but coming to Newport in 1881, where they lived until the eyesight of the aunt, which had begun to fail her, had reached the point where she could no longer care for him. The giving up of his care was very hard for her as they had become greatly attached to each other, even as strongly as mother and son. During his early manhood his aunt was his first thought and during all these years he has denied himself that he might render her all the comforts possible.

During his early childhood his health was poorly and it was feared that he would never reach years of manhood, but he struggled on and overcame his weakness. When 18 years of age he began work for H. G. Blanchard, who was conducting a grocery store, where he remained for three years, but in 1891 he entered the employ of the True & Blanchard Co. hardware store, where he continued until his death, a period of 28 years of faithful service. For the past six years he has lived in the home of his cousin, Ara W. Livingston, and for 24 years had boarded in the family of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Akin. He was a member of the First Congregational church, also a charter member of the Y. M. C.

The funeral services were held in the First Congregational church Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The church parlors were filled with friends, members of the firm of True & Blanchard Co., and employees attending in a body. Rev. L. A. Edwards spoke from the words of the scripture, "Jesus Wept." Those left in the family circle are a brother, Rev. Wm. F. Livingston of Augusta, Me., who on account of poor health was unable to attend the funeral, a sister, Miss Alice Livingston of Lynnfield Center, Mass., and a brother, Rev. S. Tracy Livingston, of Bridgton, Me. His father died in 1910, and one sister, Rebecca Livingston, died in 1889 at the age of 21 years. The burial was made in the lot of his grandfather, Farrant Livingston, at North Troy. The bearers were H. H. Green, C. A. Clark, John Wyman and Roy Meecham, who were his associates at the True & Blanchard Co. store. Those in the family circle who attended the funeral services were Rev. S. Tracy Livingston, Miss Alice Livingston, Mr. and Mrs. George Livingston, Mr. and Mrs. Ara W. Livingston, Mr. and Mrs. Urban Livingston, Miss Helen Livingston, Miss Rose Boswell and Judge and Mrs. E. P. Gilpin.

The following words from the firm of True & Blanchard Co., for whom Ned had worked 28 years, speak for themselves: "He never neglected a duty assigned him, was always in his place, willing and ready to perform any task required of him. Ned was

Leland Green's Work Commended.

G. Leland Green, principal of the Vermont state school of agriculture at Randolph Center, recently returned from Y. M. C. A. work overseas, has been warmly commended for his work in the following letter from Major General McGlachin, commander of the First Division, American Forces in Germany. This division has just returned home and paraded in New York with General Pershing at its head Sept. 10. The First Division was the first to arrive in France, had the largest number of men killed, according to the statistics of the War Department, and is the last to arrive in America. Mr. Green served the men of the 26th infantry of this Division for four months at the front, going with them through two big engagements, the Second Battle of the Marne and the Battle of St. Mihiel. Mr. Greene is a native of Coventry and well known in the county.

Headquarters First Division, American Forces in Germany, Neuwed, August 11th, 1919.

Mr. G. Leland Green, Randolph Center, Vt., My dear Mr. Green,

Now that your duties with the First Division are finished, I desire to express to you in the name of the Division as a whole, our appreciation of your services with them. Your work has always been done cheerfully and willingly. The results have been satisfactory and have helped the morale of both officers and men.

Your services with the Division did much to increase the comfort and pleasure of the men during their stay in Europe, and for such services you have our thanks and best wishes.

E. F. McGlachin, Jr., Major General, U. S. A., Commanding.

always popular with the other employees of the store, of whom he has seen many come and go, while he had remained faithfully at his post."

The high opinion of him was expressed by one of them in saying since his death: "He was the soul of honor, he was always very popular with the patrons of the store, many of whom always sought him when desirous of making purchases and it was a common saying among them that 'no matter what is wanted in the store, ask Ned and he will find it for you.'"

During all his years of service there was never an unpleasant word between him and any of his employees, a simple suggestion regarding the performance of any duty being all that was ever necessary to have it done and done the best he knew how to do it. During all his experience in the store he never appeared more happy in the performance of his work than during the past summer and has entered with great zeal and enthusiasm into his work in the basement department, where he will be greatly missed by all. As a salesman he has had few equals in the store, his own peculiar personality and enthusiasm almost invariably enabling him to serve his customer to the satisfaction of both himself and the purchaser. The 24 years that he had been in the Akin home, the friendship between himself and the Akin boys, as he knew them from their birth, became very strong with them all, and in this home he will be greatly missed as well as in the store.

"Ned" Livingston has a big heart, always remembering those who were in need and many times his money found its way into those channels that would bring joy and comfort to others.

Hog Island.

Hog Island was a swamp of waste land when the great war came. The name has been attached to it since early days when it was occupied by Indians, but the exact reason for its naming is obscure.

FRANK D. FLINT

The Store that Sells Wooltex Coats, Suits, Skirts

Fine Tailored Suits and Reasonable Prices

In order to offer Suits at Reasonable prices this season we have taken from $2.50 to $10.00 off the prices that we would ask for these suits if marked at our regular profits. We have done this because our Coats were all bought so early that the full amount of advance was not paid and the Suits seemed high in comparison. This is not a cut in prices as it is a case of starting the prices lower at the first of the season, or profit-sharing with our Suit Customers.

Black, Brown, Navy and Toupe Wool Poplin

Suits Priced at $32.50

These Suits are extremely well tailored, satin lined, and models that will be good for several seasons and will wear to look well as long as you wish to wear them. At the price we paid for these suits we would usually mark them $35.00, and at the price we would have to pay today they would have to be marked even higher than $35.00.

Handsome Broadcloth Suits	Priced $47.50, $50.00, $65.00
Oxford Grey and Mixture Suits	Priced $45.00 to $72.00
Jersey Suits	Priced $45.00
Velour Suits	Priced $45.00 to $75.00
Tricotine Suits, Hudson Seal Collars	Priced $85.00

At these prices our customers can afford to buy a suit and will not feel that they are more expensive than a coat or dress. The prospects are still higher prices for Spring, as we have already bought Dress Goods and Suitings and at higher prices than we paid this fall.

Ladies' Good Coats

Priced as low as $12.50

This is possible only because we bought our present stock in May when no one even thought that goods or the prices of labor would reach the present high prices.

Extra Values at $17.50, $19.50 and $22.50

Our Wooldex Coats are priced $22.50 and up

The same coats if it is possible to get them at all would cost us $3.00, $3.50, $4.00 and $4.50 more than we paid for the present stock, and of course the more expensive coats cost very much more.

While our present stock lasts we can surely save you money on Coats.

Plush Coats that have Snap and Style
